Child care workers in family day care services – Community Services Industry

In accordance with the advice of the Minister for Education and the Minister for Industrial Relations to the Queensland Parliament during the passage of the Community Services Industry (Portable Long Service Leave) Bill 2019¹, childcare workers/care-givers, which includes family day care educators and educator assistants, providing childcare in a family day care service are not covered by the Community Services Industry (Portable Long Service Leave) Act 2020 unless the childcare is being provided by a community services organisation and is directly and exclusively in support of that organisation's community service program/s. For example, where the childcare is being provided to directly and exclusively support persons affected by domestic or family violence who are being assisted by that community services organisation through a DFV program.
